

SOFTBALLERS GOOD AT TURKEY

Annual Banquet A Joyful Occasion — Cup Awarded Van Baalen Team

Some 80 members of the Rockland Softball League foregathered in the American Legion rooms Friday night to discuss the merits of the highly satisfying turkey supper served by the Legion Auxiliary, and to hear assurance from all sides that the season of 1947 would be bigger and better.

Presiding over this harmonious and happy gathering was the League's president, Lloyd N. Lawrence, proprietor of Lloyd's Pharmacy, who has earned the thanks of all players—and of the public—for his successful and impartial handling of league affairs the past season.

When the supper was over, and the last vestige of pie a la mode had disappeared, President Lawrence called for the treasurer's report which was presented with appropriate remarks by Ralph H. Trim. A balance of $46.51 from pre-war years was found in the till when the season opened; $461.98 was taken in collections at the games, and the total receipts for the year were $508.49. It was found necessary to buy considerable apparatus, but the year ended with $52.47 still in the treasurer's hands, and with assets amounting to $29.35.

Francis D. Orne, one of the League's commissioners, expressed the hope that the season of 1947 might start earlier, and that there be improved planning, with hard and fast rules.

At this point applause sounded for the League's mascot, Young George Brackett.

Dr. James Kent got a fine reception, as became the man who was so largely responsible for starting softball in Rockland. As toastmaster his first act was to call a "hand" for Ed Lynch and John Smith, two valued workers for the League's success.

"There's nothing like good sport to build up morale and fellowship," said Commissioner Harold Leach. Al Plourde thanked the members of his team for the good work they did. Russell Bartlett did likewise for the Camden team, and Walter Rogers nodded his approval for the Rockland and Union High School teams.

Commissioner Charles W. Sheldon said he had especially enjoyed the "world series" and made the timely suggestion that seats be provided for "tired business men." Confessing himself a dyed in the wool hard ball fan, F. A. Winslow explained to his listeners how he came that way, and compared baseball with the Gay Nineties with the game as it is played today. He told a number of stories and wished the League success the coming year.

Jolly Sol Bernstein received with a broad smile the silver cup which had been won by the Van Baalen team.

President Lawrence concluded the meeting by appointing on the nominating committee Albert McCarty (chairman), Russell Bartlett, Harry Phillips, Sol Bernstein and "Bar" Lord.

This ended a most congenial occasion.

Has New Title

Lloyd Daniels Has Been Formally Made A "Registered Jeweler"

He's a "registered jeweler" now.

A signal honor has come to a Rockland man with the formal announcement that Lloyd Daniels of Daniels, Jewelers, has been awarded the title of Registered Jeweler by the American Gem Society. Mr. Daniels has been taking courses leading toward this title for many months. Its successful attainment signifies that he has passed diamond grading and other examinations in gem stones and their substitutes as well as the precious metals and silverware tests.

The American Gem Society is an international professional organization and has as its purpose the development of a scientific knowledge of gemstones by the general public, as well as by the jeweler.

The Society registers only such jewelers as have an adequate knowledge of gemology plus the required practical experience and a proved record of integrity in their business practices through the scientific study of jewelry. Thus, in keeping with the scientific trend of the times the American Gem Society is bringing back to the jewelry trade something of the dignity and integrity of the Old Trade Guilds. The architect developed from the carpenter's vocation, the surgeon from the barber of ancient times. Responsible jewelers are entering this new profession with the idea of giving the buying public the protection of scientific knowledge.

All Masons are requested to meet at Masonic Temple at 130 Wednesday to attend the Constantine funeral.

On Timely Subject

Dr. Bucke of Boston To Discuss Palestine Problem At Methodist Church

An outstanding religious journalist, Rev. Emory S. Bucke, of Boston, will speak at Pratt Memorial Methodist Church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The arrangements for the address have been made by the Young Adult Group of which Robert C. Gregory is president. Dr. Bucke's subject will be, "An Unholy Peace in the Holy Land."

With Palestine and the Near East the center of political trouble of an international nature, the subject is timely. Dr. Bucke, recognizing the controversial nature of the subject will follow the lecture with an open forum in order that questions and expression of differing points of view may be presented.

The lecturer is the son of a Methodist minister and is a Methodist minister himself, taken from the pastorate to become the editor of Zion's Herald, the New England Methodist Journal of Religion.

Dr. Bucke is a fascinating speaker, forceful in presenting his facts, broad in his point of view and cheerful in his personal contacts. The subject is of interest of Protestants, Catholics, and Jews.

The Young Adults are performing this lecture and forum to the public without admission charge.

The Fish Landings

Reed Announces New System of Compilation At Department Headquarters

Revamping of the Sea and Shore Fisheries monthly and yearly statistical reports to include the catches by types of gear and equipment as well as the total landings of the various species and their value, is announced by Commissioner Reed.

Reed said that this work was being carried out as a joint project of his department and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service under the direction of D. Arthur McKown of Boothbay Harbor and Lewis Cates of Rockland.

The new reports, first of which was mailed out today, will be photostated instead of mimeographed and will be much more legible and informative, according to Reed. The catches of groundfish, herring and other species will be classified under, other trawl, gill nets, handline, purse seines, stop seines, floating traps, harpoons, weirs and dragnets, while shellfish landings are broken down into classifications of pots, traps, hoes, rakes and hand harvesting.

"This should provide a much more valuable service to the industry," Reed said.

He said that the total landings for the first eight months of this year were 114,165,000 pounds valued at $8,169,000 as compared with a 12-month total of 199,292,000 pounds valued at $13,611,000 in 1945.

Over 60 candidates have reported to Eck Allen, head basketball coach at the University of Maine. The Maine quintet dropped only four out of 14 basketball games last year. The losses were suffered at the hands of Rhode Island State and Connecticut. Maine will be the defending champion in the State Series basketball race this coming Winter. The University of Maine basketball schedule for the season opens Dec. 7, with Bates at Orono. Among the candidates is Elmer B. Gers, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Biggers, Thomaston.

A meeting of the Third District Council, American Legion Auxiliary will be held Wednesday night at the Bath Legion hall. Mrs. Eva Sherman, Department membership chairman will be special guest.

A HIGHWAY TRAVEL SURVEY

To Be Made This Week To Determine Location of the Proposed Road

Officials of the State Highway Commission and of the Federal Public Roads Administration, together with Rockland police, will conduct a highway travel survey in Rockland today, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

The purpose of the survey is to determine the use of highways entering and leaving Rockland to assist in the location of the new highway which is to be built here next year with Federal and State funds.

The Federal and State officers will be accompanied by a Rockland police officer at all times. Each motorist will be asked a few simple questions; the total of which will give the required information to those who will locate the road.

Strategic points have been selected for the survey stations. Two stations will be in operations will be in operation at one time, with different locations being used each day. One point will be on New County road, another on Route 17, still another on Camden street and the fourth on South Main street, near the Owl's Head line.

City Manager Farnsworth points out that the stopping and questioning of motorists is in no way connected with police work but that it is merely for traffic survey.

Once the highway is built, as announced in a Courier-Gazette some time ago, it will eliminate the Pleasant street and Park street railroad crossings. The point of leaving the present State highway is expected to be somewhere opposite Pleasant Gardens and will join Broadway at a yet undisclosed point and continue over that street and Birch streets. At the junction of Birch and Maverick, it will continue across the fields and join Camden street near the Littlefield Memorial Church.

Once started, the project will employ as many local men and truck operators as equipment is available. The Federal government has already awarded $71,000 for construction, which is to be supplemented by additional Federal and State funds to several times that amount.

Nets For Iceland

General Seafoods Order Furnishes Boom For Vinalhaven Industry

The net industry, which was revived last year in Vinalhaven by Capt. Wilfred Nickerson of General Seafoods and Mrs. Etta Morton, received a decided boost this month with the placing of a $100,000 order by General Seafoods for Iceland nets to be made this Winter.

In addition the company ordered cotton 36-gauge type nets made for Rockland and Halifax. The second order brought the total to nearly $125,000.

The first order consisted of 275 top wings, 300 lower wings, 200 square, 275 Iceland cord ends and 400 bellys. The cotton net order consisted of 150 bellys, 50 cord ends and 60 lower wings.

The sections are made in homes all over the island, the women doing the work in their spare time from household duties. Mrs. Morton delivers new twine and collects the completed sections for shipment to Boston where they are assembled into new nets or used to replace damaged sections of nets already in use.

Ames' Made Happy

Matinicus Couple Visited By Family Members From Far and Near

Capt. and Mrs. Frank W. Ames who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary three years ago have been made very happy by having every member of their family visit them this Summer and Fall—a daughter, Mrs. E. H. Clark, with her husband, of Mishawaka, Indiana; a son, Austin, with his wife and daughter Zoe, also, of Mishawaka; a son, Harold, with his wife, of Richmond, Me.; a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Ives, with her husband and young son, Bruce, of Reading, Mass.; a granddaughter, Mrs. Hayes Blessing, with her husband, of Columbia, Mo.; and a grandson, Capt. E. A. Clark, with his wife and two children, Eddie and Joyce, of Stamford, Conn.

Matinicus is very proud of this young sea captain who has just turned 30. He has been master of large ships and sailed in foreign waters all during the war, was twice torpedoed, lost one ship with cargo but all on board were rescued. His latest ship is now tied up on the Pacific Coast and upon his return to New York he will be assigned to another ship.

And, too, a word about Capt. Frank Ames who is 78. He is still one of our leading lobster fishermen. Our young men wait around the waterfront thinking it blows too hard to go out to haul their traps, but Capt. Frank goes on board of his boat and goes out—then the young men soon follow.

They are a very fine and remarkable family!

Host To P.T.A. Groups

Junior-Senior High School P. T. A. Presents State President

The Junior-Senior High School P. T. A. was the host to the other P. T. A. groups of the city at the High School building Thursday night. A baked bean supper was served to 175 people at 6:30. The supper was prepared by Mrs. Dormann and her efficient helpers, Mrs. Elizabeth Williamson, Mrs. Grace Morey, and Mrs. Edith Metcalf. Those who have enjoyed Mrs. Dormann's meals know that they are always tops in quality and palatability.

After supper the group moved upstairs to the auditorium. Stafford Congdon delighted the audience with many selections on the electric organ, which had been moved to the auditorium for this occasion. Howard Crockett led the community singing in his own inimitable and inspiring manner. Miss Stahl, program chairman, introduced Edmund Ritchie, State president of the Maine Parent-Teacher Congress.

Mr. Ritchie gave a very inspiring address on the general subject of Parent-Teacher work in Maine. He recommended the formation of a lay group of citizens to study the needs of the local school system. He also suggested that Rockland form a local P. T. A. Council. This group would be composed of the officers and executive committees of the four local associations.

Following Mr. Ritchie's address, Harold Whitehill, president of the Junior-Senior P. T. A., presided at a brief business session. It was voted to ask the other associations to unite in the formation of a city P. T. A. Council. It is hoped that this general meeting is the beginning of a great growth of P. T. A. Service in our city.

Harry E. Wilbur, defense attorney for Arthur F. Willey in the murder trial at the November term of Superior Court, says that he is still checking leads on the information which he recently obtained relative to the possibility of another person being implicated in the case. Wilbur assured The Courier-Gazette yesterday that an investigation into the matter will be requested at an early date, should his information prove well founded. County Attorney Stuart C. Burgess, queried as to the State's stand on the new developments, said that he had no statement to make at all at this time.

"Yellow Tapers For Paris." A novel by Bruce Marshall. Publishers, Houghton, Mifflin Co., Boston.

One will not soon forget the scenes pictured here, of Paris just before its fall; dramatic and with an irony that is delicate and sure. The tale is among the petit bourgeois. Bigore, an accountant, who is afraid to do kindly acts for fear he be counted a prig; Odelle, his sulky, but very plucky daughter; Chenu, the harsh-mannered veteran; and Baquerot, filled with resentment. Then there is the optimistic Laterard, and the revolutionist Verneuil—all these one finds in a state of bewilderment—lost and wondering.

"Yellow Tapers for Paris" is an indictment of the sloth of modern man. A very clear picture is given in this story of the French nature. All the characters, however, are imaginary.

It is a political story with much of the inside conditions new to us on this side of the Atlantic. It carries one into the very heart of trouble. But through the story one finds a fundamental and sure integrity of promise; quite fortunate are the ones who read and learn is this tale written on the spot.

The Sea Scouts

The Rockland Ship is hard at work preparing for the Thanksgiving ball at the Community Building, Friday night, Nov. 29. Music will be furnished by Wayne Drinkwater's 12-piece band and will feature George Humley as vocalist.

Another call is being made for toys, games, puzzles and children's books. The Sea Scouts are collecting and conditioning these articles for distribution to various social agencies. Help an unfortunate child to enjoy a really Merry Christmas! Please notify an official of either Scout unit and a uniformed scout will pick up your contribution.

The study of the 32-point compass and of relative bearings was continued at the Wednesday night meeting. A compass game and bearing charts were used as aids in instruction. Preparation for the next Court of Honor was in order with considerable advancement planned in each crew. Horatio Cowan, Jr., Donald Joseph, and Howard Varney, were guests.

In the near future, the "Red Jacket" boys will be guests of the new Sea Scout Ship in Camden, repaying a recent visit to the Engine House by the Camden ship.

[EDITORIAL]

THE PASSING OF OLIVER HALL

The death of Oliver G. Hall, managing editor of the Bangor Commercial, was read with much regret by former Rockland townsmen, and especially by the writer of these lines, who was his contemporary of boyhood days when the deceased was popularly known as "Nell," and who later with him, wrote current Rockland news. The ideas which he displayed as a playmate, revealed themselves in his long career in State affairs and in Bangor newspaperdom. The obituary which appears elsewhere in this issue is from the columns of the Bangor Daily News which has paid such a splendid tribute that little if anything can be added.

Mr. Hall early won the admiration and esteem of the late J. P. Bass, owner of the Bangor Commercial, from whom he was the recipient of special favors. So conspicuous was the ability which the Bangor editor displayed, together with his outstanding work for the Republican party, that he was frequently urged to seek the Congressional seat in the Third District, but this high compliment he persistently declined on the ground that he did not feel in a financial position to make an active campaign. The State has lost one of its best newspaper men, and thousands will mourn the passing of a friend who had greatly endeared himself to them.

WHILE IN THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Maine's senior Senator Wallace H. White, Jr. seems in a fair way to retain his position as Republican leader of that body when the new Congress convenes. Mr. White has signified his willingness to accept the honor if it is tendered him, and as majority leader it would tremendously enhance the prestige which he has been enjoying as minority spokesman. His personal popularity, unexcelled by any member of the United States Senate, his long acquaintance with Congressional affairs, and his unbroken record for square dealing will make Senator White an outstanding figure in the session which is soon to begin. And it can scarcely fail to be without its effect should he conclude to ask another term.

WHAT IT MEANS TO MAINE

When the five men who comprise the "Turnpike Authority" meet Nov. 26 for the official opening of bids for surfacing the Kittery to Portland super-highway their decision will have a far-reaching effect upon three Maine industrial concerns. Would that decision favor the use of cement it will mean the demand for 455,000 barrels from the Lawrence Portland Cement Company's plant at Thomaston; it will mean revenue in excess of $300,000 to the Maine Central Railroad in hauling coal to the plant and the cement product from it; and to the Central Maine Power Company it will mean the furnishing of 9,956,000 kilowatt hours in its share of the contract.

DISTRIBUTING OUR SAVINGS

The bankers will be enacting the role of Santa Claus within a few days when they distribute among 8,360,000 Christmas Club members the impressive sum of $635,990,000, earned through the year by the simple process of laying by a small weekly sum which would otherwise be frittered away without fitting results.

The total distribution is 15.7% ahead of last year and represents an all-time high for the 36 years of Club operation. The average pre-member distribution is about $100 in Metropolitan areas and $76 for the entire country, as against $72 last year. The total number of individual members participating this year shows an increase of 760,000 over a year ago.

A recent cross section survey indicates the estimated funds of $635,000,000 will be used by the recipients approximately as follows: Permanent savings, $203,200,000; insurance premiums, $76,100,000; debt retirement, $44,500,000; year-end bills, $4,500,000; taxes, $63,500,000; Christmas purchases, $203,200,000; total $635,000,000. The above information, gratifying in the extreme, is furnished by Christmas Club, Inc.

PROPOSED CUT IN TAXES

We certainly hope that the Republican leaders are well fortified in their claim that they will be able to make a 20 percent income tax reduction "straight across the board," as they put it. Representative Joseph W. Martin who is to become the next Speaker of the House of Representatives, sponsors the plan, and he would scarcely be expecting any such move unless he felt that the circumstances warrant it. The large reduction proposed could be brought about only through a tremendous paring of Uncle Sam's annual budget, and throughout the length and breadth of the land there, probably exists no fair-minded person who would not concede that the Democratic administrations of recent years have not been spending money like drunken sailors and without rhyme or reason. That a stop should be put to such a wild orgy is one of the lessons taught by the recent Republican landslide. Thrifty persons are sick and tired of devoting such a large part of their earnings to the bureaucrats—needlessly.

MAINE SENATORS RANK HIGH

Reminiscent of the old days when Maine's Congressional delegation played such a conspicuous part at the National Capital is the situation in which the State's two Senators now find themselves. Ernest G. Warren, the Associated Press Washington correspondent has this to say about them:

"None of the political bigwigs now here can be quoted in advance of Thursday's meeting of the Republican Senate steering committee, but most predict that Senator White (R-Me.), floor leader since the death of former Senator McNary (R-Ore.), will continue as leader when his party organizes the Senate. Senator Brewster (R-Me.), now ranking minority member of the special war investigating committee (the well-known 'Truman committee') by custom will move into the chairmanship of that powerful, headline garnering group. White, quiet and soft-spoken, is regarded by many party colleagues as probably the ideal man of quarterback the Republican team on the floor."

STUPID TRADE RESTRICTIONS

No American housewife needs to be told that sugar today is one of the scarcest commodities. Though feeble signs of a let-up have appeared of late the sugar famine is still acute, accompanied by continued rationing and price control. So it is of more than passing interest to learn from figures of the Department of Commerce (quoted in "The Bulletin" of the United States Cuban Sugar Council) that the crop next year in all major areas supplying this country is likely to exceed this year's crop by a million and a half short tons. But whether this increase will be permitted greatly to benefit the American consumer depends on other factors besides the largesse of nature.

It should be understood that normally Cuba supplies more than half the sugar available for consumption in the United States. Its crop is greater than that of all the other source areas combined. A very poor second is the domestic beet-sugar crop, followed by the cane crops of Puerto Rico, Hawaii, the United States and the Philippines, in that order. So the question of importation is crucial, and this rests in turn on our trade policy. The sugar act of 1934, for instance, assigned to Cuba a quota of only 23.6 percent of the United States market. Fortunately, our government has recently signed a contract for the purchase of all but 738,000 tons of next year's Cuban crop, or an estimated total of 4,476,000 tons. This will amount to a quota of about 53 percent of the American market, a welcome jump in the circumstances, especially as perhaps a fifth of our whole supply will be allocated to the International Food Council for consumption elsewhere. All of which affords a valuable lesson in the stupidity of excessive foreign trade restrictions.—Herald-Tribune.

Limerock St., Rockland

Winslow-Holbrook-Merritt Post met Thursday night. Commander Arbo wished to extend the thanks of the Post to the public for the turn-out to the Armistice Day ball.

It was reported that 301 membership cards were flown to Waterville from Knox County, Nov. 10, by Capt. William Wincapaw, in participation of the Legion Aerial Round-Up. By a strange coincidence, the total paid-up memberships of this Post is also 301, at the present time.

Commodore Joshua N. Southard will speak at the next meeting relative to the Sea Scouts, and the possibility of another charter being obtained locally.

Milton Lawry, Jr., requests all interested in forming a firing squad to participate in military funerals to contact him, and points out that there will be much demand for same in the coming months with the War Departments plan for the shipment home of veterans at present buried overseas.

The following information is presented in answer to many inquiries regarding eligibility for membership in the Legion:

"And person shall be eligible for membership in the American Legion who was regularly enlisted, drafted, inducted or commissioned at some time during the period be-

and Mrs. Hollie Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Young, Ruth Young, Mr. and Mrs. George Higgins, Robert Coates, Judge and Mrs. Z. M. Dwinall and Bertie Milliken of Camden.

The corsages worn by Mrs. Carver and her attendants were made by Mrs. Helen Overman.

Educational Club

An Excellent Program Marks Last Picnic Of The Season

Miss Marion Weidman of Rockport pleasantly entertained the Women's Educational Club for the last picnic of the season.

The club members were 100% in 15-minute daily sold reading. The critics' reports given by Mrs. Emma Bradstreet and Mrs. Jessie Robbins showed the following words to be mispronounced or the accents misplaced: brooch, governor, catastrophe, culinary, docile, conversant, secrete, mayonnaise, hospitable, deluge, orchestra, interest, interesting, interested, cocaine, all-g, address, plenary, chastisement, exquisite, ideology; also the wrong use of a and an as well as plurality and majority.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in the discussion of current events with the Republican landslide forming the chief topic under consideration. In the opinion of some of the members, the chief reason for the sudden exit of the Democratic party from the seat of government was the O.P.A., which appeared to be assuming dictatorial powers with discrimination against certain groups and privileges for others.

Some expressed belief that prices would be lowered if competition would be allowed free play, and people would refuse to pay exorbitant prices, buying only necessities, thus eliminating the need for a Government agency such as the O.P.A., with the attendant expense of operating it with the numerous employees and officers required to say nothing of hampering freedom of movement and red tape.

Mrs. Eugene Sleeper read an article to the effect that Government expenditures should be carefully overhauled with the purpose of eliminating duplication of effort, and dismissing incompetent and unnecessary employees.

Teachers' salaries furnished another topic for discussion. It was pointed out that the general dissatisfaction of teachers could be easily explained by the fact that many of their pupils without special education or skill were earning even as high as $17 a day, vacating, and more than the hard-working teacher outside of school hours.

Considering the time and money which must be expended for an education sufficient to qualify one for a teaching certificate, the return was considered to be extremely inadequate, by present day standards. Attention was called to the fact that teachers had left their schools for factory work and had almost doubled their pay without any special skill in that line. The fact was mentioned that while the minimum pay in this State was increased to $1000 grade and rural teachers were benefited to the exclusion of high school teachers who found but slight difference in their pay, generally speaking.

The evening speaker was Warren Francis McCabe of the Thomaston State Prison, who gave interesting facts about the institution. Today there is the additional objective of educating those prisoners up for life to resume their places in society with improved morale as well as a useful occupation such as wood-working, upholstering, or accounting. Examples of their work may be seen at the prison store.

With these objectives in view the prisoners are given tests upon entrance to determine intelligence level and thus form a basis for their further training and education, thus equipping them to face life and its problems. He also contrasted the cells and equipment of the prison in the early days with those of today.

The original cells with close quarters and poor sanitation justified the facts of "jail" whereas the equipment today compares favorably with other modern penal institutions. There is provision for recreation and the prisoners have ear phones with which they can hear the programs selected by the prison authorities.

The prison farm and its 895 acres, with 250 under cultivation is quite an institution in itself. It is well stocked and furnishes employment for a large number of prisoners.

Many prisoners up for serious crimes showed a surprising attitude, he pointed out, giving a case where a man who killed a policeman thought he shouldn't be punished for defending himself, and another of a notorious criminal who committed vicious crimes and left a note stating that he had a kind though weary heart.

In the open forum which followed, he pointed out that parents and the church shared responsibility with the schools where pupils spend only around five hours daily during the school year. As prisoners come from all classes of society, all parents should try to prevent the combination of circumstances which might eventually cause their children to end up behind bars.

When asked if he approved of taking school pupils through the prison, he was of the opinion that it might have a deterrent effect on juvenile delinquency, although prison morale isn't improved by pointing out certain prisoners and relating their crimes.

Rev. Curtis L. Stanley, who has been amazingly successful in his efforts to build up the Church of the Nazarene at the North End, will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Baptist Men's League Thursday night. His sub- ject will be "National Security." Mr. Stanley has been pastor of the church nearly two and one-half years, but but commuted from Westbrook to the Rockland pulpit for 15 months prior. He is an en- ergetic and convincing speaker and the League members are awaiting his coming with much pleasure.

Residents of the T street area have been victimized of late by per- sons who drive past and throw refuse from automobiles. A vigor- ous campaign is being organized.

The Rotary Club

Richard Hallett, War Cor- respondent, Recites Experi- ences In the Pacific

Visiting Rotarians at Friday's meeting were Gil Harmon, Frank E. Morrow, Albert Payson from Camden, Robert W. Hudson, Au- rus, A. Loring, Bangor, Richard Hallett, Boothbay Harbor, George F. Post, Damariscotta. Guests were William English, Damariscotta, and Ralph Cowan, Rockland. The song director was Ray Perry.

Introduced by Albert MacPhail, the speaker Robert M. Hallett, news writer for the Gannett Pub- lishing Co., described himself as a coving reporter, and Joe Blow artist, sent out to look up Maine men in the service. He said he would talk about the Pacific islands since they were now looking again in the headlines and a glance over that part of the world's area would be timely.

In a forceful, humorous manner he told of his four months' experience in the islands, and his con- tacts with native life. One of his thrilling experiences was the locat- ing of the wreck of his uncle Will Jackson's ship, the Bath built in 1883. One old native among 132 on the island remem- bered the name of Captain's daughter Emma. The work of the ship had all been eaten away, but native divers brought up about 65 pounds of coral encrusted metal. This metal, promised to be delivered to him for the State museum in August, was never delivered.

The natives are docile, and spoke well of the Japanese, probably in fear of a Jap return, and the fact that they have lived under many flags and authorities, and never know what fortune may have in store for them. Different treat- ments must be given the natives in the different island groups. Na- tives of the Marshalls are not fond of work. Give them canned milk and they feed on it. No fishing. The natives of the Marshalls will never pay the price in labor for the luxuries of life.

The problem on Okinawa is more difficult. 400,000 people of Japanese ancestry live on this island and are regarded by the Ja- panese as second cousins. The speaker thought that the problem of management here might be left to the Chinese, who, because of large property holdings, could be trusted to keep an eye on things.

Remarking upon the wisdom of "Okinawans," he told that a bureau lifted with difficulty by two marines and placed upon the head of a 50-year old woman was carried easily by her for a distance of five miles. Her husband also helped in the heavy work of mov- ing by carrying an empty coal hod.

On one of the islands Mr. Hallett had as companion, one Freddie, a "realtic" islander. They were not doing well in conversation when out of a clear sky, and in perfect English Freddie asked "What do you think of John Milton?" In his surprise Mr. Hallett could only stammer that he thought him rather hard. Freddie replied that he did, too, but did he not think that Gray's Elegy was more "sim- ple?" Mr. Hallett agreed but fear- ing that this cultural bath might be too much for him did not push the conversation.

The work of the Old Boston Mis- sion was mentioned as being re- sponsible for the very good four- soring by the natives. Guam was the most civilized of the islands visited. At least the people seemed to have more of the luxuries of life.

The speaker gave credit to the excellence of the Japanese charts used in navigating the islands. At the present time and for the best of military reasons a veil of secrecy must be drawn about the islands

Lewis A. Fales

Long Time Educator. For- merly of Thomaston, Dies In Attleboro

Three years of retirement, the time of which he divided between the city that employed him for 38 years as its schools' superinten- dent and his Cape Cod Summer home at East Dennis, ended Wed- nesday for Lewis A. Fales, who died at Sturdy Memorial hospital, where he had submitted to an op- eration nearly two weeks ago.

Mr. Fales' total length of service in the school system here was 41 years, he having served for three years as principal of the Sanford street School, prior to his election as superintendent. Upon reaching the retirement age of 70, Mr. Fales "stepped down" as he used to put it, only to be recalled to direct several civic enterprises which he had learned to do so well through his years of service as a public official. Outstanding of these ef- forts was his chairmanship of the city-wide clothing collection.

Many of his friends tried un- successfully to persuade Mr. Fales to avail himself of the emergency State law which would have al- lowed him to serve as superinten- dent of schools two years beyond his retirement age. He told them that he had made up his mind to "see what he could do with his garden on the Cape." To this effort he applied his usual zeal and this Fall some of his garden prod- ucts look prizes at the Cape town's community fair.

During his long term of public office here and during most of his three years of retirement, Mr. Fales enjoyed good health. When he returned from the Cape this Fall, he was well tanned but he had lost considerable weight. About three weeks ago surgeons deter- mined that he would have to un- dergo an operation and it was for him an appeal for blood donors was made.

Mr. Fales served as superinten- dent of the schools from 1905 to the time of his retirement in July 1943. He came to Attleboro, how- ever, in 1902 as principal of the Sanford street School. He left to go to Dedham for a six months until a clear determination of their place in the scheme of internation- al politics can be worked out.

Oil Burner Fires

Proper Care Of Equipment Should Be Taken Says Chief Van Russell

Fire Chief Van E. Russell re- ports that Rockland is experienc- ing its share of oil burner fires along with the rest of the country, as reported by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. He points out that it is not because of the fuel used; but lack of proper care of the equipment.

He recommends, as do the un- derwriters, that all installations be done by an experienced workman who appreciates the necessity of following the directions given by the manufacturer. Secondly, to have the burner and boiler inspected and serviced at least once each year. The following is quoted from the underwriters' report on oil burner fires and their causes:

"Strainers become clogged, or- fices are sometimes so worn as to feed too much oil, the fine and chimney may become clogged and the water in the boiler, where one is used, may have such heavy de- posits as to prevent economic op- erations. A thorough check of the automatic control devices and proper oiling and cleaning of the burner and other moving parts should be included in any annual 'checkup.'"

Chief Russell points out that the services of a fire inspector are available for the asking to all citizens. This man is skilled in fire prevention work and would point out defects which might cause difficulties when cold weather comes. Several skilled oil burner repair men are available in the city for inspection and repair of oil burner equipment.

Island Bowlers

The Vinalhaven Pin Stabbers Adopt the Seven-Man Team Style

The Ganders and the Skippers started off on their right and wrong foot respectively last Monday night, when they officially opened the bowling season at the Cascade Alleys, with the Ganders winning by a big margin in what was supposed to be an evenly matched event.

Previous to the season at the Alleys they had enjoyed a session at the supper table at the home of "P.M." O. V. Dred, where the void in both mind and body was partially filled by double helpings of "Beulah's Best" lobster chowder, aided by huge chunks of pie topped by still larger hunks of ice cream.

At a business meeting presided over by Capt. Grimes it was decided not to disband the two teams and go into a league, the majority of the bowlers thinking it would not be desirable to break up an organization that had run so successfully for so many years.

Every man jack being present it was found that there were enough men for two seven-man teams and it was decided to bowl with seven men on a side for the first time, with the low man dropping off next week. It was also decided to try bowling five boxes at one time, and while some thought it worked out well, there were others who preferred the old style of two boxes at a time. The five-at-one-time style seemed to be just made to order for "Link Sanborn" for in his first five frames he got five straight tens, a feat he could not duplicate again, however.

One of the results of the business meeting was the shifting of Shields over into the Ganders, in an effort to bolster the strength that team was supposed to need. The deal seemed to be just what the Ganders needed for Shields came through with a nice 276, tying Poole for second honors.

It has been said that absence makes the heart grow fonder, but absence from the alleys does not make the arm grow limber or the eye get better as was evidenced by Peterson's 68 in his first attempt, and Adams' 60 in his first attempt. But "Pete" kept getting a little better and later on will be up at the top of the list. It remained for that old war horse "Link" Sanborn to lead the pack with a nice 106 single and 226 total. Link always claims that he can bowl his best strings at the very first match, with no practice whatsoever.

Before the match Capt. Grimes made a grave slip of the tongue when he complained he "was getting too old to bowl" but when he compared his string with some of the younger men he wished he had not made the remark, because any time Der Cap can trim the other fellow he is going to bowl, regardless. And if anybody thinks that letter in The Courier-Gazette escaped his eagle eye they have an other thing coming. "What I'd like to know" snorted Der Cap when he read the letter, "is where that supper has been all this time that we won from the Skippers so many years ago, way back when I was a small boy. If I had everything due me from that bunch I could put on a supper every Monday night and give a bonus besides. And as for superior bowling just watch our dust this year. Just you wait and see. Der Cap puffed slowly on his five cents worth of stinkweed and said, "If the Ganders do not win the pennant this year I will put on all by myself one of the best corn mush smacks you ever saw in your life. I'll make those Skippers eat their words or eat mush."

The score:

Ganders-Bickford 250, Grimes, 253, MacDonald 241, Sanborn 286, Dexter 243, Shields 276, The Goose 271. Total, 1829.

Skippers-Adams 220, Mitchell 224, Young 253, Peterson 239, Anderson 250, Guilford 260, Poole 276. Total, 1722.

To Buy Grand Piano

Community Concert Association Takes Step Important To Local Music

The Executive Board of the Knox Community Concert Association met at the office of Dr. C. Harold Jameson, president, Tuesday night. He reported that on his recent trip to Boston, Mr. Sistrup, the New England representative to the Columbia Concerts, Inc., had contacted him and informed him of an excellent piano available for $1800. Ten other communities are interested in it, but arrangements were made for the Knox Community Concert Association to have the first refusal.

The board, learning that it has $185.00 in the treasury for the fund, voted to purchase this piano. It is a rebuilt, Steinway model B Music Room Grand Piano with an ebony finish.

The Columbia Concerts, Inc., will allow $300 towards the piano the next year, and under the enthusiastic leadership of Dr. Jameson and Mrs. Ruth Sanborn, plans are under way for concerts which will rid the association of the debt undertaken to purchase the piano in a very short while.

Considering that this piano fund was started only last May, there is every reason to believe that the hustling committee will soon have the piano paid for and will be planning improvements for the stage at the Community Building which are badly needed.

Anyone desiring to add to the piano fund is requested to mail a check to Dr. C. Harold Jameson, president or Herbert C. Newbegin, treasurer of the Knox Community Concert Association.

The Coast Guard Depot Is To Be Retained In Rockland

The Coast Guard Depot is to remain in Rockland, with a base crew of two officers and 18 enlisted personnel, according to a telegram received by Fred C. Gattcombe, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The message came from Representative Margaret Chase Smith who had gone directly to the Coast Guard Commandant for her information after it was learned that removal of the base from Rockland had been recommended.

The ships and stations of the Coast Guard in this area have been the center of a year long exchange of telegrams and letters between local interests, Coast Guard officials in Boston and Washington and Mrs. Smith.

At present, the ice breaker and rescue tug Snichomish, is in Boston for repairs with the buoy tender Laurel, due here today to stand by for possible rescue calls until her return.

A Rousing Meeting

Universalist Men's League Basks In Flood of Cheerful Light

Fifty-four men sat down to a typical good dinner in the Universalist vestry last night. They were served by the Tonia Circle Ladies whose catering has achieved popularity with the Universalist Men's Club.

Raymond C. Perry led in the singing with Hugh Benner at the piano. Dr. Lowe read a letter from Harold Payson, the retiring president of the Club, in whose absence Louis A. Walker, presided.

Rev. Kenneth C. Hawkes was presented by Dr. Lowe and proceeded to shed a flood of cheerful light upon current trends in Maine Universalism. He related a story of revived churches, increased attendance, sounder financing and organization, better pay for ministers, 20 new pastors attracted to service here in Maine.

All in all it was a stirring record of progress in liberal religious work in Maine.

A KINDLY THOUGHT

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—There seems to be much preparation for Thanksgiving among the family groups—especially since the war is over and most of the boys are home, but let us not forget the old folks, those living alone, receiving perhaps the old age pension.

Surely a little remembrance for them—a small basket of mixed fruits, nuts, candy, cookies, cake or jellies—with perhaps cans of soup, etc., taking the gift personally and seeing for yourself these recipients. Remember Him who said, "Twas I who did it unto one of these ye did it unto me."

A Shooting Mystery

Relative, By Marriage, Of a Rockland Couple, Killed On Verona Island

Dwinal A. Ulmer, 45, brother of a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Conant of this city, who disappeared while hunting on Verona Island, Armistice Day, was found dead, Tuesday by a searching party. The body bore two bullet wounds, one in the abdomen and the other through the heart. The fact that both were contact wounds eliminated the possibility of Ulmer having been mistaken for a deer, officials said, but the county medical examiners who performed the autopsy recommended to County Attorney Harvard Blaisdell that further investigation be made into the case.

One theory that has been advanced in the case was that Ulmer was accidentally wounded by his own rifle and put himself out of his misery by firing the second shot through his heart. Officials said there were powder burns around the abdomen wound while that through the heart appeared to have been of such close contact that there were no burns and the heart was shattered.

Four empty shells were found beside Ulmer's 35 calibre rifle while a fifth empty shell was in the gun. His body lying in a sort of crevice, as though he had tripped and fallen, giving rise to the theory that he might have wounded himself as he fell. Officials further theorized that he might have fired three more shots in an attempt to summon assistance and when none was forthcoming, used the last bullet to end his suffering.

One of the bullets which wounded Ulmer was of 35 calibre, the same as that in his own rifle. While the other was said to have been of a "different type" with the calibre not yet determined, it was stated that Ulmer had been using two different types of bullets in his rifle, one silver tipped and the other lead-tipped.

Oliver Leigh Hall

Death Of Former Rockland Man Who Rose High In Journalism

Oliver Leigh Hall, 76, editor of the Bangor Daily Commercial, former executive secretary to Gov. Lewis O. Barrows, and at one time State Librarian, died Sunday at his home in Hampden following a brief illness. He was a newspaperman for over a half century.

A native of Rockland, he was born May 6, 1870, son of Judge Oliver Gray and Sarah Frances (White) Hall. He was educated in the Rockland schools and graduated from Coburn Classical Institute and attended Colby College.

He was later awarded honorary master of arts degrees by his alma mater and University of Maine.

He began his brilliant journalistic career with the Waterville Sentinel, serving as editor from 1892-94. From 1895-97 he was city editor of the Rockland Daily Star, becoming editor of the publication in 1897. He remained in that capacity until 1900 when he joined the staff of the Bangor Commercial as city editor.

In later years he served the Commercial in various capacities, leaving in 1937 to become executive secretary to Gov. Barrows. From 1939 through 1941 he was State Librarian, being appointed to this post by Gov. Barrows.

He returned to the Commercial in 1942 as managing editor and since that time had headed the paper's editorial staff.

His daily editorials represented a keen analysis of international and current events and were widely read throughout the State. His simple graceful style and his clarity of expression made him popular with all who read his articles.

He followed Maine politics closely during his lifetime and developed through the years a sense of fairness which he inherited from his father, a former judge of the Kennebec County Superior Court.

It was Mr. Hall's transition from longhand to typewriter that gave him the nickname—"Blick"—by which he was known among colleagues of his journalistic youth. Mr. Hall's first typewriter was a huge, massive Blickensdeffer—a make long since out of production—and he became known as "Mr. Blickensdeffer," an appellation quickly shortened to "Blick."

A tireless worker, he devoted most of his life to journalism and writing. His sterling character and his pleasant personality enabled him to make friends easily and he was honored and revered by all who came in contact with him.

His interest in athletics, which he maintained all through life, originated when he was a small boy. During his school days he starred in several sports, excelling in baseball and track in addition to being a golfer and tennis player of marked ability. He was editor of the Colby Almanac, graduate publication, contributing numerous articles through the years and bringing the publication to a position of prominence among college and university periodicals in the nation.

From 1908-09, he was a member of the Bangor Common Council and from 1910-11 served on the Board of Aldermen. He was director of the Port of Portland authority from 1937-42, president of the board of trustees of Coburn Classical Institute, and the Good Samaritan Home, a past president of the Maine Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association, past president of the Maine Sons of the American Revolution, a member of the Reserve Officers' Association of Bangor, the Patrons of Husbandry of Hampden, the Society of Mayflower Descendants, Zeta Psi, Aurora Lodge, P.A.M. of Rockland, the Bangor Masonic Club, Eastern Star Grange of Hampden, and a past president of the Bangor Rotary Club. He was also president of the Madockawando Club, at one time one of Bangor's leading social organizations.

Surviving the his wife, Marie Agnes (Bunker) Hall; one son, Oliver Gray Hall, of Augusta, two daughters, Mariam A. Hall and Mrs. Herschel L. Good, both of Hampden; and three grandsons, Robert and Stephen Good, of Hampden, and Oliver Gray Hall, III, of Augusta.

Funeral services were held in St. John's Episcopal Church this morning with committal services in Ledgewood cemetery, Bar Harbor.

Gov. Hilditch said: "It is with great regret that I hear of the passing of Oliver Hall who, through service to the State so many years in different capacities in addition to his official connections as a journalist contributed greatly to the life of Maine."

Frank B. Nichols, publisher of the Bath Times, expressed regret at the loss of a friend of 59 years standing. Nichols said Hall whom he termed "a very fine and gifted writer" was a fellow student of his at Coburn Classical Institute and at Colby College.
